

Press release

QUIET.BOX Live: First impressions are essential - even virtually

How to make your next video call more successful

Karben, January 2024 - With the rapid transformation of the working world, the forms of collaboration are also changing. Video conferencing is now an integral part of everyday working life in three quarters of companies. However, they are often perceived as unproductive. The office furniture manufacturer König + Neurath presents a possible solution with QUIET.BOX Live.

Homogeneous ambient lighting, indirect accent lighting and switchable front lighting: what reads like the operating instructions for a car is one of the recipes for success of the new room-in-room solution from Karben in Hesse. The well-established company König + Neurath not only offers its customers desks, office chairs and storage solutions, but also innovative room systems. Now it is introducing a variant that can improve video meetings - not in terms of content, but in terms of form and function. By presenting people in the best light and with optimum sound.

How frame conditions also improve the quality of video conferencing content

"Video conferencing offers our partners, like many companies, the opportunity to bring their teams together for coordination, updates or project work without incurring travel costs or the need for everyone involved to be in the office at the same time. However, the sticking point for the organisation so far is that individuals often block entire meeting rooms or take part in the video call directly at their workstation, which in turn disturbs others," says Peter Heimann, Head of Sales Room Systems at König + Neurath, describing two of the common problems. "As the light and sound quality is usually suboptimal, content and details are lost on the transmission path," he adds. "If you sit in peace and quiet in a pleasantly ventilated room that doesn't let in any disturbing noises and presents you in the best light and with optimal sound, then you yourself will be more focused and will be perceived clearly and distinctly by the call participants. That's half the battle."

Advantages of QUIET.BOX Live for architects and interior designers

However, the new video box from König + Neurath doesn't just offer users a range of advantages, it also benefits interior designers and planners. The selective use of the QUIET.BOX Live opens up new possibilities in the structuring of spaces: In open office landscapes, they can be placed flexibly without interfering with the building structure and can be adapted to the existing furniture in terms of style and colour. They increase flexibility by allowing them to be grouped with the QUIET.BOX Duo and QUIET.BOX Duo XL to create self-sufficient retreat areas of different sizes. "We have hit a nerve with the QUIET.BOX Live and have already sold more than a dozen units before the official market launch," says a delighted Peter Heimann from König + Neurath.

Facts and figures about the new QUIET.BOX Live

Dimensions: 1,200 x 1,500 x 2,226 mm

Lighting: Homogeneous ambient lighting, indirect accent lighting and switchable front lighting

Acoustics: large acoustic fabric panels for anechoic telephone calls, acoustic glazing with 38 db

Design: extensive choice of fabrics and materials

Installation time: low-noise installation within a few hours

Sustainability: uncomplicated relocation during remodelling, numerous redesign options (long service life), dismantling without loss of material and talk to the office furniture experts about current topics.

About König + Neurath:

Work cultures are changing - and with them the demands on working environments; spatially, technically and organisationally. König + Neurath offers answers: as one of the leading suppliers of office furniture and room solutions, the internationally active family business, founded in 1925, supports customers throughout the entire office design process - from analysis, planning and production to long-term service. The company manufactures its products exclusively at its headquarters in Karben, has six showrooms in Germany and is represented internationally in France, England, Austria, Switzerland, Belgium/Luxemburg and the Netherlands. König + Neurath thus combines reliable quality "office furniture made in Germany" with an international radius of action.

Experienced, full of ideas and working in partnership, König + Neurath discovers the potential and challenges of individual work cultures - and develops customised solutions with differentiating style worlds, cross-product series and digital offerings.

Your contact person:

Ilona Hennicke, phone: +49 6039 483-245, e-mail: ilona.hennicke@koenig-neurath.de
König + Neurath AG, Industriestrasse 1-3, D-61184 Karben, www.koenig-neurath.com