An impressive gathering of some 150 leading brands from across the world in a significantly expanded showcase

ORGATEC TOKYO 2024 is gearing up for its third edition, and visitor registration is now open. With each edition, the event has grown significantly. Today the dynamic forum attracts almost 150 leading brands from Japan and around the world, including ITOKI, OKAMURA, KOKUYO, UCHIDA YOKO, PLUS, Inaba International, Karimoku Furniture, Knoll, UniFor and IIOI°. The resounding success of ORGATEC TOKYO reflects the industry's interest in its themes and concept. It is also a mark of the high quality of the event, which has grown considerably by attracting new exhibitors each year while also maintaining a loyal following of returning exhibitors.

In response to the enthusiastic reaction to ORGATEC TOKYO 2023's central theme, [SHIFT DESIGN], the upcoming edition of the trade fair will take this idea forward by diving deeper into the potential and appeal of excellent design. Going beyond mere aesthetics, functionality, style and beauty, excellent design has the potential to shape the future. ORGATEC TOKYO thus aims to bring together creative professionals from the fields of furniture and interior design to promote innovation, improve efficiency in the workplace and look ahead to the future of work.

Materials development and sustainable resources will be another focus topic at the event with the CIRCULAR MIRAI (CIRCULAR FUTURE) special event area. It will highlight the urgent need to reduce waste through the application of circular thinking in all areas of economic activity. Adopting this approach is an essential cornerstone of the society of the future. Drawing on the principles of the circular economy, the special event area will showcase the latest products for office design based on circular materials under the banner of "Materials for Creating a Circular Future". Further focus topics in the special event area will be Waste and Resources, Processing Materials from Manufacturing Processes, and Upcycled Products.
